2. The Structure & Functions of the Council

2.1 History of the City of Adelaide (Adelaide City Council)

The Adelaide City Council was founded on 4th November 1840, following the Colonial Municipal Act of the same year. Nineteen Common Council men (the Mayor and three Aldermen being selected by the members from among their numbers) attended a meeting in a room in a Hindley Street hotel and marked the beginning of local government in Australia. The Corporation became legally defunct in September 1843 but reformed by Act of Parliament in 1852. In 1861 the Mayor was first elected by the citizens.

In June 2006, the State Government passed the City of Adelaide (Representation Review) Amendment Act 2006. The Act allows City of Adelaide to carry out a Representation Review to establish if the community would benefit from amendments to the electoral structure of Council.

The outcome of this Representation Review resulted in a change to the Council structure from the October 2007 Elections.

A further Representation Review was held in 2013 and from the November 2014 Elections the Council was elected from 12 positions as follows;

- Lord Mayor
- Four (4) Area Councillors
- Seven (7) Ward Councillors (two Councillors each from North and South Wards, and three Councillors from Central Ward)

From the November 2010 elections, the term of office became four (4) years.

The role of the Council is to administer the affairs of the City by maintaining and, where necessary, renewing the infrastructure and responding to the needs of residents, workers, visitors and city users. It services an area of 15.57 square kilometres represented by approximately 23,000 electors.

The Council has adopted the following Vision:

“Adelaide is a welcoming and dynamic city full of rich and diverse experiences.”

The functions of Council are carried out to benefit the community. The services and infrastructure provided are done so to provide for the welfare, well-being and interests of individuals and groups within Council’s community. Council is responsive to the needs, interests and aspirations of individuals and groups within the City of Adelaide community.
