HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This house is an excellent example of a Victorian asymmetrically fronted sandstone residence. It retains important stylistic elements including projecting front wing, rendered quoins and facings to windows and doors, verandah and eaves brackets.

Town Acre 1041 was not subdivided in 1880 at the time of the Smith Survey but was subsequently developed during the decade following. This house remains an important indication of the type of residences constructed at that time, and the use of South Australian sandstone as a building material.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This house is an important example of the type of residences constructed in North Adelaide during the 1880s and 1890s, and reflects the design, details and building materials commonly in use at that time.

The significant number of stone and brick residences, like this house, constructed between 1870 and 1890 throughout this section of the city, are an important element of the distinctive historic residential character of North Adelaide.

RELEVANT CRITERIA (under Section 23(4) of the Development Act, 1993):

(a) This house displays historical and social themes that are of importance to North Adelaide as it represents the continued construction of residences on recently subdivided Town Acres, particularly during the 1880s and 1890s.

(d) This asymmetrically fronted house displays aesthetic merit and design characteristics of significance to North Adelaide as it is a typical Victorian residence displaying consistent use of materials such as sandstone masonry walls and detailed render.

EXTENT OF LISTING:

External form, materials and details of this Victorian asymmetrically fronted residence, including the walls, verandah and roof form associated with the house style.

NOTE: The 'Description of Place and Elements of Heritage Value' listed in the Adelaide (City) Development Plan for this property is as follows:

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:
Local builder George Murray bought vacant Lot 1 of an eight lot subdivision on TA 1042 in June 1878 from Frederick Hamblin for around £70. Earlier in 1874 Hamblin had bought the vacant lot from James Botten for £25. Rate Assessments for 1879 record a vacant lot, but two semi-detached houses were recorded on site by November 1881 and appear on the Smith Survey. When Peter Martin and his second wife Mary lived here the two cottages with verandahs became one dwelling when they had plans passed in March 1898 for additions which are those on the corner.

Peter Martin and his wife Fanny lived here from 1897 until 1934 when the property was transferred to the Catholic Church Endowment Society Inc. Peter Martin whose occupation is given as grocer, merchant, importer and cordial manufacturer was the joint manager of a business known as the Import Company of Australasia. He died at his Francis Street residence in October 1924.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This is one of a set of four late Victorian houses along Kingston Terrace which retain highly distinctive and ornate pedimented and balustraded parapets to the front elevation. They are an important element in the Kingston Terrace streetscape.

At the time of the publication of the Smith Survey in 1880, Town Acre 1033 and the adjacent acres east of Jerningham Street were shown as undeveloped. While the City of Adelaide Land & Investment Company was in possession of the two Town Acres 1032 and 1033 in 1882, it was 1891 before any lots were sold.

Henry Thomas Sheppy bought the property in 1892. An Evandale builder, he made an application for the building of two dwellings on Town Acre 1033 on 31 August 1893. It is more than likely that he built all four of the similar cottages on Kingston Terrace on this Town Acre.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This cottage and the adjacent three are an important example of speculative building on newly subdivided Town Acres in the early 1890s. The houses display an exceptional degree of detail in the elaborate parapets above a traditional single fronted house design. They are an important feature of the eastern end of Kingston terrace fronting the Park Lands.

The significant number of stone and brick residences, like this house, constructed between 1870 and 1890 throughout this section of the city, are an important element of the distinctive historic residential character of North Adelaide.

RELEVANT CRITERIA (under Section 23(4) of the Development Act, 1993):

(a) This single fronted house displays historical and social themes that are of importance to North Adelaide as it represents the continued construction of residences on recently subdivided Town Acres, particularly during the 1890s.

(d) This single fronted house displays aesthetic merit and design characteristics of significance to North Adelaide as it is a typical single fronted late Victorian residence displaying consistent use of characteristic materials such as masonry walls, ornate moulded render and a verandah with decorative cast iron details.

(f) The group of four houses is a notable landmark in the area.

External form, materials and details of this Victorian single fronted cottage, incorporating the walls, parapet, verandah and roof form associated with the house style.

This house is an example of an 1890s symmetrically fronted sandstone residence. It retains important stylistic elements including rendered quoins and facings to windows and doors, verandah and eaves brackets.

The Smith Survey shows Town Acre 1032 vacant in 1880 and it was subsequently developed during the following decades. This house remains an important indication of the type of residences constructed at that time, and the use of South Australian sandstone as a building material.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This house is an important example of the type of residences constructed in North Adelaide during the 1870s-1880s, and reflects the design, details and building materials characteristic of that time.

The significant number of stone and brick residences, like this house, constructed between 1870 and 1890 throughout this section of the city, are an important element of the distinctive historic residential character of North Adelaide.

RELEVANT CRITERIA (under Section 23(4) of the Development Act, 1993):

(a) This house displays historical and social themes that are of importance to North Adelaide as it represents the continued construction of residences on recently subdivided Town Acres, particularly during the 1880s and 1890s.

(d) This house displays design characteristics of significance to North Adelaide as it is a typical 1890s Victorian residence displaying consistent use of materials such as sandstone masonry walls and detailed render.

EXTENT OF LISTING:

External form, materials and details of this late Victorian symmetrically fronted residence, including the walls, verandah and roof form associated with the house style.

NOTE: The 'Description of Place and Elements of Heritage Value' listed in the Adelaide (City) Development Plan for this property is as follows:

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This house was built for Adelaide Louisa Rymill in 1935 by builders Webber & Williams. It was designed by architects E H McMichael and Harris. The longest term owner was Katherine Downer Verco who owned the property between 1950 and 1973.

This is an elegant Georgian revival style residence which was particularly popular during the Inter War period. It sits in a prominent location with views to the Park Lands to the north, continuing the type of large residences along this section of Kingston Terrace which had been constructed during the 1870s and earlier.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This house remains an important example of the type of residences constructed during the Inter War period as infill or replacement in North Adelaide, and reflects the fashion for Georgian architecture of the time.

This is an elegant Georgian revival style residence which was particularly popular during the Inter War period. It sits in a prominent location with views to the Park Lands to the north, continuing the type of large residences along this section of Kingston Terrace which had been constructed during the 1870s and earlier.

Town Acre 1030 was subdivided by Thomas Worsnop who had invested in several vacant Town Acres in North Adelaide. After further subdivision, this allotment of 100ft x 53ft was purchased by Hilda Caroline Williamson in 1927. This large two storey house was built in 1929 for Hilda and Ernest Woolmer Williamson. It cost £4051 and the builders were Sands & Tinline. However, the property appears to have gone through further additions for by July 1934 the rateable value had climbed from £176 to £500. By this time the property was rated as three lots with a frontage of hundred feet. The property remained in the Williamson family name until about 1960 before being transferred to a pastoral company which may still have been associated to the Williamson family.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

The Kingston Map of 1842 for Town Acre 710 records only one property in Kermode Street at the time. This cottage was recorded in the council's first rate assessments for North Adelaide adopted 1849-1851, but may well date several years before then. (Real Property Act Application 2413 documents which may have contained further evidence with regard to ownership and for dating the property, have been temporarily lost.)

By 1849-1851 Town Acre 710 had been subdivided into eleven properties, while that of TA 707 comprised a further nine properties, making for a small tight knit community in the southwest part of the Cathedral Precinct. Lakeman Street (formerly Union Street) cuts through these Town Acres which were heavily populated even by 1850. In this period this two room brick cottage was owned by J Bohlmann and described as being on the west side of the private street.

By September 1861 the rate assessments record that the two cottages on land measuring 52 x 40 ft were now in the ownership of saddler Wilhelm Bruggemann. Additions are recorded in 1872, probably the rear section. When Bruggemann died in 1909, the property was transferred to his widow who sold them two years later in 1911.

In more recent times, the two cottages were owned by well known local barrister John Jefferson Bray for seven years up until 1972. However, responsibility for their long term survival and refurbishment must go to later owner Horst Salomon, who renovated them before their resale in 1980.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

These two pre 1850 brick cottages are significant for being part of a once tight knit community of other cottages of similar age and which were once to be found along Lakeman Street (formerly Union Street). Residences, like this cottage, remaining from the earliest period of housing development in North Adelaide, are important examples of the type of houses constructed in the city during the process of settlement. They reflect the style, scale, materials and detail characteristic of dwellings of the 1850s and 1860s.

RELEVANT CRITERIA (under Section 23(4) of the Development Act, 1993):

(a) This house displays historical and social themes that are of importance to North Adelaide as it represents the initial settlement in the area and housing development in newly subdivided Town Acres.

(d) This house displays aesthetic merit and design characteristics of significance to North Adelaide as it displays Early Victorian characteristics such as rendered brick walls, low scale and simple form as well as characteristics of a typical single fronted

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This two storey house was built in 1883, and replaced an earlier four roomed stone and brick cottage that was built before 1851. The 1880s house was built for E H Spicer and was designed by architects Evans & Evans. It sits in a prominent position on LeFevre Terrace with views to the east Park Lands.

This house is an excellent example of an 1880s two storey bay fronted sandstone residence. It retains important stylistic elements including a projecting front bay with moulded rendered details, brick quoins and surrounds to windows and doors, verandah with cast iron decorative brackets and frieze elements, eaves brackets. It also retains a masonry and iron fence characteristic of this house style. This house remains an important indication of the type of residences constructed at that time, and the use of South Australian sandstone as a building material.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

A six room stone residence with outbuildings and owned by the Wesleyan Mission Trust was built on this corner site before 1851. A few doors along Lefevre Terrace on the boundary of TA 827, was a Wesleyan chapel built in the same period. The corner property remained within the ownership of the Methodist Church in South Australia until about the Second World War.

The house underwent its first major alterations in the late 1920s. The property took on its essentially mid twentieth century character from this period onwards and was converted to a version of the Inter War bungalow style. Further major alterations were undertaken by the next owner, Dr J Helman in 1956.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This house is an indicative example of an Inter-War Bungalow style residence. It retains important stylistic elements including broad roof form, bracketed gable ends and brick or stone walls.

This style of house was constructed as infill development as Town Acres were further subdivided between the wars. This house remains an important indication of the type of residences constructed at that time, and evidence of the use of new styles of domestic architecture during this period.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This two storey mansion built for E S Wigg, proprietor of the renown local printers, was referred to in the ACC rate assessments in 1871 as an unfinished house. It was built on the site of a former Wesleyan Church that was built here before 1851. While the property has been subject to alterations since it was first built, the original form of the property is easily recognisable on the 1880 Smith Survey. It is an excellent example of an 1870s-1880s two storey symmetrically fronted bluestone residence. It retains important stylistic elements including brick/rendered quoins and facings to windows and doors, verandah with cast iron decorative bracket and frieze elements, and eaves brackets. It also retains a masonry and iron fence characteristic of this house style.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This large residence was constructed in 1913 for Arthur Waterhouse. The style of the house is known as Edwardian free classicism. It is a style that attempts to bridge the Italianate character of the Victorian period and give a new interpretation of the classical style during the Edwardian period. It retains important stylistic elements including rendered masonry walls, rendered quoining, window and door mouldings, an oversailing roof with boxed eaves and eaves bracketing, trabeated loggia and Marseilles tiled roof. An unadorned classical house was not a typical domestic architectural style during the Edwardian/ Federation period and this house would seem to be a forerunner of the Mediterranean/ Georgian Revival of the 1940s.

This house replaced a row of houses owned by the South Australian Company. This house remains an important indication of the type of residences constructed at that time, particularly the continuation of large residences along the park lands frontage.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This house is an important example of the type of residences constructed in North Adelaide during the 1890s-1920s, and reflects the design, details and building materials in use at that time.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This house is an excellent example of an 1890s-1920s Edwardian residence constructed during the Federation period. It was constructed for Lady Good in 1922, replacing semidetached houses that predate the 1880 Smith Survey. It cost £3000 and the builders were Fisher Brothers.

Though the house has now been converted to two residences, it retains important stylistic elements including sandstone walls, tall brick chimneys, strapped timber gables, terracotta tiled roof, complex roof forms and decorative timber verandah elements. This house remains an important indication of the type of residences constructed at that time, and the use of design sources from Europe and Britain including Queen Ann, Arts and Crafts, and art nouveau often resulting in a distinctly Australian ‘Federation’ type.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This house is an important example of the type of residences constructed in North Adelaide during the 1890s-1920s, and reflects the design, details and building materials commonly in use at that time.

The significant number of stone and brick residences, like this house, constructed between 1890 and 1920 throughout this section of the city, are an important element of the distinctive historic residential character of North Adelaide.

RELEVANT CRITERIA (under Section 23(4) of the Development Act, 1993):

(a) This house displays historical and social themes that are of importance to North Adelaide as it represents the continued construction of residences on recently subdivided Town Acres, particularly during the 1890s-1920s.

(d) This house displays aesthetic merit and design characteristics of significance to North Adelaide as it is a typical Edwardian Federation residence displaying consistent use of typical materials such as sandstone masonry walls, highly decorative timber elements and terracotta tiled roof.

EXTENT OF LISTING:

The substantial whole of the c1920 Federation Bungalow including roof and verandah form and detail, stone walls, masonry chimney, window and door configuration and joinery. Later carport is not included.

NOTE: The ‘Description of Place and Elements of Heritage Value’ listed in the Adelaide (City) Development Plan for this property is as follows:

No 76  House - Frontage and side wall returns visible from the street
No 79  House – Federation/Inter-War Bungalow. Excludes later carport

This is the legally recognised listing and should be used for the purposes of development application assessment.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:
This one storey residence was built in 1902 on a large vacant lot block comprising three lots owned for many years by a Dr W Barlow. When he subdivided the land, three houses were built between 1902 and 1904. This property was built for Charles Gerner for £590, while two houses were built alongside for WH Gilbert at 84 and 87 Lefevre Terrace between 1903 and 1904. This house underwent a degree of modernisation in the 1930s and now presents as an Inter War style.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:
This house is an important example of the type of residences constructed in North Adelaide during the 1920s-1930s, and reflects the design, details and building materials commonly in use at that time.

The significant number of stone and brick residences, like this house, constructed in the Inter War period between 1920 and 1940 throughout this section of the city, are an important element of the distinctive historic residential character of North Adelaide.

RELEVANT CRITERIA (under Section 23(4) of the Development Act, 1993):
(a) This house displays historical and social themes that are of importance to North Adelaide as it represents the continued adaptation of residences on Town Acres after the First World War.

(d) This house displays aesthetic merit and design characteristics of significance to North Adelaide as it is a typical 1920s-1930s Inter-War residence displaying consistent use of typical materials.

EXTENT OF LISTING:
External form, materials and details of this Inter-War revival style residence, including the walls, the details of the front elevation and the roof form associated with the house style.
