HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This house is an excellent example of an 1880s asymmetrically fronted sandstone residence. It retains important stylistic elements including projecting front wing, rendered quoins and facings to windows and doors, verandah and eaves brackets.

The Smith Survey shows this section of Town Acre 979 not yet subdivided in 1880 but it was subsequently developed during the decade following. This house remains an important indication of the type of residences constructed at that time, and the use of South Australian sandstone as a building material.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This house is an important example of the type of residences constructed in North Adelaide during the 1880s, and reflects the design, details and building materials commonly in use at that time.

The significant number of stone and brick residences, like this house, constructed between 1870 and 1890 throughout this section of the city, are an important element of the distinctive historic residential character of North Adelaide.

RELEVANT CRITERIA (under Section 23(4) of the Development Act, 1993):

(a) This house displays historical and social themes that are of importance to North Adelaide as it represents the continued construction of residences on recently subdivided Town Acres, particularly during the 1880s.

(d) This asymmetrically fronted house displays aesthetic merit and design characteristics of significance to North Adelaide as it is a typical 1880s Victorian residence displaying consistent use of materials such as sandstone masonry walls and detailed render.

EXTENT OF LISTING:

External form, materials and details of this Victorian asymmetrically fronted residence, including the walls and roof form associated with the house style.

NOTE: The 'Description of Place and Elements of Heritage Value' listed in the Adelaide (City) Development Plan for this property is as follows:

House
Victorian/Edwardian transitional asymmetrically fronted residence

This is the legally recognised listing and should be used for the purposes of development application assessment

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

These houses are an excellent example of attached row houses constructed as speculative property investment during the 1860s, and subsequently upgraded during 1930. They retain important stylistic elements including brick quoins to windows and doors, projecting masonry dividing walls, with hipped roof and verandah extending along the row.

The outline of this row of cottages shows on the Smith Survey of 1880 in Town Acre 1009. The row was upgraded during the early 1930s with the installation of party walls and rationalisation of the roof form. (refer photographs following) This row remains an important indication of the reuse of early, and the use of South Australian sandstone as a building material.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This row of houses is an important example of one of the types of early residences constructed in North Adelaide and upgraded during 1930, and reflects the design, details and building materials commonly in use at that time.

RELEVANT CRITERIA (under Section 23(4) of the Development Act, 1993):

(a) This row of houses displays historical and social themes that are of importance to North Adelaide as it represents the continued construction of residences primarily for rental on recently subdivided Town Acres, particularly during the 1860s and their upgrading for continued use in the 1930s.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This pair of properties were constructed after 1880, as the Smith Survey shows this corner of Town Acre 982 as vacant in 1880. The property was originally built as a corner shop with an attached residence, as early photographs indicate, but the residential use has ceased, as the this section of Melbourne Street now has a commercial function.

The corner property, no 79, retains important stylistic elements typical of 1880s commercial premises, including rendered masonry walls and a corrugated iron hipped/gabled roof behind a store front parapet. A recent verandah of appropriate form returns around the corner and the shopfront area has been enlarged. The shop at 75-77 was originally the attached residence for the corner shop. The former domestic use of the attached rear former residence is indicated by the set back and in the roof form. A linking element has enclosed the open space between the corner building and the shop at no 73, creating a row of commercial premises.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This shop and attached former residence is representative of the development of commercial facilities and services during the Victorian period in North Adelaide. It is indicative of the combined shop/residence form typical of this section of Melbourne Street at the time. It is contributes to the historic streetscape of Melbourne Street and reflects the creation of a local 'High Street' for this section of North Adelaide.

RELEVANT CRITERIA (under Section 23(4) of the Development Act, 1993):

(a) This shop and attached former residence displays historical and social themes that are of importance to North Adelaide as it reflects the development of a local North Adelaide economy.

(c) This shop and attached former residence has played an important part in the lives of local residents in the provision of goods and services to residents of the immediate area and the wider local community.

(d) This shop and attached former residence displays aesthetic merit and design characteristics of significance to North Adelaide as it retains elements typical of single storey commercial buildings of the Victorian period.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:
This two storey Victorian shop and attached residence was constructed in 1883-4 for H J Packer. It served as a butchers shop until the 1960s. The building is an excellent example of a well detailed two storey Victorian shop and attached residence. It is carefully detailed with fluted pilasters to No. 84 and a pierced parapet with projecting pediment above the first floor level. The building retains important stylistic elements including, face sandstone, rendered quoins and facings, eaves brackets, detailed parapet balustrading and an upper floor verandah with cast iron balustrade.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:
This two storey shop and attached residence remains substantially intact apart from some alterations to the ground floor shop front and the upper floor windows to the former residence. The building is an important early commercial structure in Melbourne Street, of extremely high quality finish and detailing. It is a long established retail property which retains its early form and is indicative of the former architectural character of this section of Melbourne Street.

Its two-storey scale is an important linking element between the later higher shops and offices to the west and the typical single storey strip of development to the east.

RELEVANT CRITERIA (under Section 23(4) of the Development Act, 1993):
(a) This two storey asymmetrically fronted former shop and residence displays historical and social themes that are of importance to North Adelaide as it represents the continued development of commercial buildings in this section of Melbourne Street during the 1880s.

(c) This shop has played an important part in the lives of local residents in the provision of goods and services to residents of the immediate area and the wider local community

(d) This two storey building displays aesthetic merit and design characteristics of significance to North Adelaide as it is typical of a high quality Victorian shop and attached residence. displaying consistent use of characteristic materials such as sandstone masonry walls, moulded render and a verandah with decorative cast iron details.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

Little survives of the Wesleyan Church presence in North Adelaide, apart from a church hall in Archer Street and this former Wesleyan Chapel in Melbourne Street. The first main branch of the Wesleyan Church was a small chapel built in Kermode Street in 1842 which was replaced by a larger chapel built in Archer Street in 1856.

Trustees of the Wesleyan Church were responsible for building a school on this site in 1869. On the Smith Survey of 1880 it is marked as a Wesleyan Chapel as it was used as a school in the week and as a place of worship on Sundays. It was constructed in simple hall form with a projecting entrance porch facing Melbourne Street. The building materials are limestone walls with brick dressings.

This former Wesleyan church/school building is a pertinent reminder of more pious times and when small communities were served by their own 'village' like local church or school. In 1988 this property had still not been brought under the Real Property Act, but had been converted to a commercial premises during the 1970s.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This former chapel is an important part of the historic streetscape in Melbourne Street reflecting the provision of community religious and educational facilities during the 1860s for the immediate residents.

RELEVANT CRITERIA (under Section 23(4) of the Development Act, 1993):

(a) This building displays historical and social themes that are of importance to North Adelaide as it reflects the development of local communities and the provision of community religious and educational facilities for them during the 1860s.

(b) It represents customs or ways of life that are characteristic of the local area as it is indicative of the development of village life in parts of North Adelaide.

(c) It has played an important part in the lives of local residents as the church/school catered for the spiritual and educational needs of the many working class families living in this part of North Adelaide.

(d) This building displays aesthetic merit and design characteristics of significance to North Adelaide as it is an excellent example of an 1860s limestone and brick chapel building.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This pair of attached shops with projecting shopfront sections is shown on the Smith Survey as a pair of attached cottages. It would appear that the buildings were converted to Commercial use during the 1880s-1890s when the shopfronts were added. This was a common form of adaptation during that period.

The shopfront to no 111 was added in 1898 for storeman J B Robertson and a verandah was added soon after. This shop was owned for some time from 1910 by licensed victualler Alfred Ernest Press, who had also been publican of the nearby Lord Melbourne Hotel. He owned this property and rented it out until his death in 1934. The shopfront to 117 was added earlier, probably in the 1880s when the building was owned by Stephen Clark, a tailor. Later owners were also tailors.

The shopfronts are important historic elements in the developing streetscape of Melbourne Street during the Victorian period.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This two storey shop with a substantial residence above was built for Charles Long in 1880. It was part of a large subdivision across the two Town Acres of 985 and 986 by William Thomas Foster. He bought the land in 1877 from Thomas Elder and J Hart.

George Murray, a builder, bought several lots of this subdivision along Parker Street (now Bower Street) in 1879 and built sixteen small houses. A year later this shop was built, possibly by local builder Thomas Gully, whose name is given in the rate assessment records for this property and four adjoining dwellings in Melbourne Street.

The shop has been used or known as a chemist and druggist, a bootmaker, Harford's Fish Shop, a fruit shop and a mixed business. It was a bootmakers for the longest period for at least thirty years in the early twentieth century.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This prominent corner two storey shop represents the building speculation boom of the late 1870s and early 1880s. It is representative of the development of commercial facilities and services during the Victorian period in North Adelaide. It contribute to the historic streetscape of Melbourne Street and reflects the creation of a local 'High Street' for this section of North Adelaide.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This house is an excellent example of an 1890s-1920s residence of a transitional design. It retains important stylistic elements including sandstone wall construction, combined with hipped and gabled corrugated iron roof, rendered quoins and facings to windows and doors, with decorative timber verandah and gable elements.

The western end of Melbourne Street remained essentially residential while the eastern end had developed as the main street for Lower North Adelaide particularly during the 1870s and 1880s. This former house remains an important indication of the type of residences constructed at that time, and the use of South Australian sandstone as a building material.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This house is an important example of the type of residences constructed in North Adelaide during the 1890s-1920s, and reflects the design, details and building materials commonly in use at that time.

The significant number of stone and brick residences, like this house, constructed between 1890 and 1920 throughout this section of the city, are an important element of the distinctive historic residential character of North Adelaide.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This former house is an excellent example of an 1870s-1880s asymmetrically fronted sandstone residence. It retains important stylistic elements including projecting front wing, rendered quoins and facings to windows and doors, verandah with cast iron decorative brackets and eaves brackets.

The western end of Melbourne Street remained essentially residential while the eastern end had developed as the main street for Lower North Adelaide particularly during the 1870s and 1880s. These semi-detached former houses remain an important indication of the type of residences constructed at that time, and the use of South Australian sandstone as a building material.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This former house is an important example of the type of residences constructed in North Adelaide during the 1870s-1880s, and reflects the design, details and building materials commonly in use at that time.

The significant number of stone and brick residences, like this former house, constructed between 1870 and 1890 throughout this section of the city, are an important element of the distinctive historic residential character of North Adelaide.

RELEVANT CRITERIA (under Section 23(4) of the Development Act, 1993):

(a) This former house displays historical and social themes that are of importance to North Adelaide as it represents the continued construction of residences on recently subdivided Town Acres, particularly during the 1870s-1880s.

(d) This asymmetrically fronted former house displays aesthetic merit and design characteristics of significance to North Adelaide as it is a typical 1870s-1880s Victorian residence displaying consistent use of materials such as sandstone masonry walls, detailed render and cast iron.

EXTENT OF LISTING:

External form, materials and details of this Victorian asymmetrically fronted residence, including the walls and roof form associated with the house style.

NOTE: The 'Description of Place and Elements of Heritage Value' listed in the Adelaide (City) Development Plan for this property is as follows:

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This former house is a good example of an 1840s-1860s simple workers cottage. It exhibits important stylistic elements including low scale and simple detailing indicative of its early date of construction. Houses of this period display gable ended roof form and are one or two rooms in depth. The office addition to the front has not obscured the original gable ended roof structure.

The western end of Melbourne Street remained essentially residential while the eastern end had developed as the main street for Lower North Adelaide particularly during the 1870s and 1880s. This former house remain an important indication of the type of residences constructed during the 1860s.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

Cottages like this former house, remaining from the earliest period of housing development in North Adelaide, are important examples of the type of houses constructed in the city during the process of settlement. They reflect the style, scale, materials and detail characteristic of dwellings of the 1850s, 1860s and early 1870s.

RELEVANT CRITERIA (under Section 23(4) of the Development Act, 1993):

(a) This former house displays historical and social themes that are of importance to North Adelaide as it represents the initial settlement in the area and housing development in newly subdivided Town Acres.

(d) This former house displays aesthetic merit and design characteristics of significance to North Adelaide as it is a typical 1860s residence displaying consistent use of materials such as rendered masonry walls, low scale and simple form.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:
This pair of attached houses is an excellent example of an 1890s-1920s residence of a transitional design. It retains important stylistic elements including sandstone/bluestone wall construction, combined with complex roof form, corrugated iron/terracotta tiled roof, brick quoins and facings to windows and doors, with decorative timber verandah elements.

These attached houses were described as '2 houses unfinished' in the 1897 ACC Rate Assessments. Built for Mrs Mary Ann Trudgen, they were designed by architect Thomas Hyland Smeaton, who also designed the 1885 villa at 161-162 East Terrace known as Craigweil and a pair of 1892 attached houses at 334-340 Halifax Street.

Mary Trudgen's husband, Nicholas Wallis Trudgen, was the builder for the dwellings which were expected to cost £1300 to construct. The Trudgen's never lived here themselves but rented out the dwellings until they sold them in 1934. They have remained as residential properties in Melbourne Street.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This house is a good example of an 1890s-1920s single fronted residence of a transitional design. It retains important stylistic elements including masonry wall construction, combined with corrugated iron half gabled roof and eaves brackets. A high boundary fence has replaced the front verandah.

The western end of Melbourne Street was essentially residential and this house is indicative of the type of residences constructed at that time, some of which like this one were transitional in that they retained some elements of earlier house design.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This house is an important example of the type of residences constructed in North Adelaide during the 1890s-1920s, and reflects the design, details and building materials commonly in use at that time.

The significant number of stone and brick residences, like this house, constructed between 1890 and 1920 throughout this section of the city, are an important element of the distinctive historic residential character of North Adelaide.

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION:

This house is an excellent example of an 1890s-1920s Edwardian residence constructed during the Federation period. It retains important stylistic elements including masonry walls, tall brick chimneys, elaborate gable ends, complex roof form, roughcast render and decorative timber verandah and gable elements. The upstairs addition repeating roof form was built in 1995.

This house remains an important indication of the type of residences constructed at the turn of the century, and the use of design sources from Europe and Britain including Queen Ann, Arts and Crafts, and art nouveau often resulting in a distinctly Australian ‘Federation’ type.

STATEMENT OF HERITAGE VALUE:

This house is an important example of the type of residences constructed in North Adelaide during the 1890s-1920s, and reflects the design, details and building materials commonly in use at that time.
