

OFFICES (Former Shop and Residence)

171-173 Halifax Street

(CD Ref 1347/86)

This building demonstrates the relationship between retail activities and the formerly tight-knit nature of residential communities in the city of Adelaide. It appears to have been built for Roger Wakeham who emigrated to South Australia in 1876 and worked as a butcher and farmer. He possibly raised his own cattle and sheep for the butchering trade and by 1883 owned this shop as an outlet.

The building is well-constructed of squared sandstone. The 'shop' windows have been altered and the veranda/balcony is a sympathetic addition erected during the mid-1970s.
